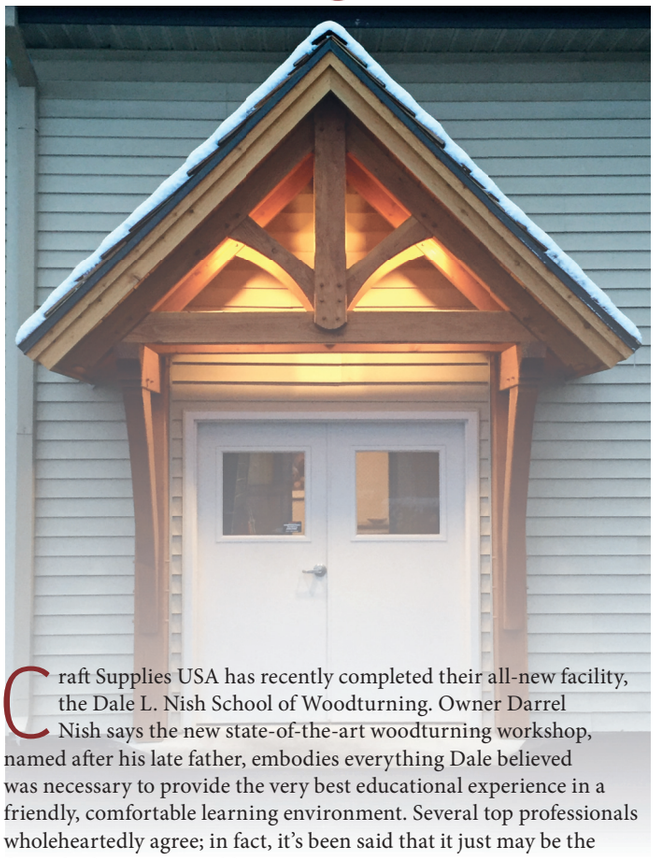
Dale L. Nish School of Woodturning



Craft Supplies USA has recently completed their all-new facility, the Dale L. Nish School of Woodturning. Owner Darrel Nish says the new state-of-the-art woodturning workshop, named after his late father, embodies everything Dale believed was necessary to provide the very best educational experience in a friendly, comfortable learning environment. Several top professionals wholeheartedly agree; in fact, it's been said that it just may be the finest facility in the world.

The Dale L. Nish School of Woodturning provides individual workstations, complete with all the latest tools, chucks and accessories. This is combined with ample high intensity lighting, on-demand air and a powerful Oneida dust extraction system. Every student is guaranteed to experience the woodturning workshop of a lifetime.

Thousands of students have experienced the joy of woodturning at Craft Supplies USA during the past 33 years. The new Dale L. Nish School of Woodturning is sure to continue in the tradition.
